Bradleys Brothers' Legacy

In 1903, Lynde and Harry Bradley established a new business in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. It took courage and confidence for them to risk resources in a new venture, based only on their judgment of what was and their vision of what could be. The Bradleys' confidence was bolstered by the knowledge that in America, not only were they free to start a business, they could also begin again if they failed. The Bradleys, however, would not fail. Their business grew to become the internationally recognized Allen-Bradley Company.

When the Allen-Bradley Company was acquired by Rockwell International Corporation in 1985, a significant portion of the proceeds was dedicated to establishing The Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation. Although it has no direct ties to the Allen-Bradley Company, the purpose of the Foundation is to commemorate Lynde and Harry Bradley by preserving and extending the principles and philosophy by which they lived and upon which they built their company. As their efforts succeeded, their business grew and eventually extended far beyond its Milwaukee headquarters. Lynde and Harry Bradley remained devoted to the city where they began their enterprise and in which they lived and worked for so many years. Thus, the Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation is proud to continue its commitment to improving the quality of life in the Milwaukee metropolitan area and throughout southeastern Wisconsin.

The Bradleys lived and worked according to several philosophical principles. They believed that, over time, the consequences of ideas were more decisive than the force of political or economic movements. They recognized the interdependence of human endeavors – cultural, educational, philosophical, economic – and they rejected exclusionary emphasis on any single element. The brothers had an abiding belief in the dignity and decency of each person. They felt that only in an environment of political and economic freedom could individuals develop their talents, hone their skills and intellects, and contribute to the improvement of the human condition. The success of the Allen-Bradley Company stands as eloquent testimony to the enduring quality of these principles.

The Bradley brothers were committed to preserving and defending the tradition of free representative government and private enterprise that has enabled the American nation and, in a larger sense, the entire Western world to flourish intellectually and economically. The Bradleys believed that the good society is a free society. The Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation is likewise devoted to strengthening American democratic capitalism and the institutions, principles and values that sustain and nurture it. Its programs support limited, competent government; a dynamic marketplace for economic, intellectual, and cultural activity; and a vigorous defense at home and abroad of American ideas and institutions. In addition, recognizing that responsible self-government depends on enlightened citizens and informed public opinion, the Foundation supports scholarly studies and academic achievement.

The Foundation's Board, on occasion, undertakes to define and redefine its current program interests. At present, the Foundation aims to encourage projects that focus on cultivating a renewed, healthier, and more vigorous sense of citizenship among the American people, and among peoples of other nations, as well.

The free society so central to the convictions and success of the Bradley brothers rests upon and is intended to nurture a solid foundation of competent, self-governing citizens, who are understood to be fully capable of and personally responsible for making the major political, economic, and moral decisions that shape their own lives, and the lives of their children. Such decisions are made on the basis of common sense, received wisdom, traditional values, and everyday moral understandings, which are in turn nurtured and passed on to future generations by healthy families, churches, neighborhoods, voluntary associations, schools, and other value-generating "mediating structures."

This expansive understanding of citizenship is being challenged today, however, by contemporary forces and ideas that regard individuals more as passive and helpless victims of powerful external forces than as personally responsible, self-governing citizens, and that foster a deep skepticism about citizenly values and mediating structures. Consequently, authority and accountability tend to flow away from citizens toward centralized, bureaucratic, "service-providing" institutions that claim to be peculiarly equipped to cope with those external forces on behalf of their "clients." This systematic disenfranchisement of the citizen, and the consequent erosion of citizenly mediating structures, pose grave threats to the free society that the Bradley brothers cherished.

In light of these considerations, projects likely to be supported by the Foundation will generally share these assumptions:

- ✎ They will treat free men and women as genuinely self-governing, personally responsible citizens, not as victims or clients.
- ✎ They will aim to restore the intellectual and cultural legitimacy of citizenly common sense, the received wisdom of experience, everyday morality, and personal character, refurbishing their roles as reliable guideposts of everyday life.
- ✎ They will seek to reinvigorate and reempower the traditional, local institutions – families, schools, churches, and neighborhoods – that provide training in and room for the exercise of genuine citizenship, that pass on everyday morality to the next generation, and that cultivate personal character.
- ✎ They will encourage decentralization of power and accountability away from centralized, bureaucratic, national institutions back to the states, localities, and revitalized mediating structures where citizenship is more fully realized.

In addition to these thematic considerations, eligible projects will exhibit these features:

- ✧ They may address any arena of public life – economics, politics, culture, or civil society – where citizenship as here understood is an important issue. It is important to note that our view of citizenship is not primarily concerned with promoting civics education, voter awareness or turn-out, or similar activities narrowly focused on voting and elections.
- ✧ They may address the problem of citizenship at home or abroad, where the fall of many (and the perpetuation of some) totalitarian regimes has made this issue particularly urgent.
- ✧ In light of our emphasis on decentralization, and considering the Foundation’s deep roots in Milwaukee and Wisconsin – areas with proud traditions of innovation and experimentation in democratic citizenship – community and state projects will be of particular interest to us. Such projects will aim to improve the life of the community through increasing cultural and educational opportunities, grass-roots economic development, and effective and humane social and health services, reflecting where possible the Foundation’s focus on the resuscitation of citizenship.
- ✧ Projects may be actual demonstrations of the resuscitation of citizenship in the economic, political, cultural, or social realms; policy research and writing about approaches encouraging that resuscitation; academic research and writing that explore the intellectual roots of citizenship, its decline, and prospects for revival; and popular writing and media projects that illustrate for a broader public audience the themes of citizenship.

Much of the creative and energetic leadership essential for a renewal of citizenship will be supplied by gifted individuals, who must receive challenging and stimulating programs and instruction at all levels of their education. The Foundation supports programs that research the needs of gifted children and techniques of providing education for students with superior skills and/or intelligence. Research programs investigating how learning occurs in gifted children and demonstration programs of instruction are to be considered.

The programs and funding decisions of the Bradley Foundation are the responsibility of the Board of Directors. At the discretion of the Board, the policies set forth herein will be modified in response to changing conditions and priorities.

The guidelines established by the Board of Directors will normally preclude funding for unspecified and undetailed overhead costs. No funds will be authorized for fees payable to fund-raising counsel. In addition, grants without significant import to the Foundation's areas of interest will only under special conditions be considered for endowment or deficit-financing purposes.

The Foundation will:

- Normally award grants only to organizations and institutions exempt from federal taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code and publicly supported under Section 509(a)(1), (2) or (3);
- Favor projects that are not normally financed by public tax funds;
- Consider requests for building projects and limit grants to a fraction of the total cost.

Grantees must possess the resources to properly administer grants from the Foundation. The Foundation conducts an annual evaluation of grants, and grantees are asked to provide periodic reports on the progress of their work.

Application Procedure

Two steps are required in the application process. First, the applicant should prepare a brief letter of inquiry to the Grants Program, describing the applying organization and its intended project. If the Foundation determines the project to be within the current program interests as determined by its Board of Directors, the applicant will be invited to submit a formal proposal.

Second, if invited to submit a formal proposal, the applicant should submit another letter. It should include a more-thorough, yet still concise description of the project, its objectives and significance, and the qualifications of the groups and individuals involved in it. It should also include a project budget, the specific amount being sought from the Bradley Foundation, and a list of other sources of support, philanthropic or otherwise.

The applicant should submit a copy of the Internal Revenue Service letter confirming the applying entity's tax-exempt and public-support status under Sections 501(c)(3) and 509(a), respectively, of the Internal Revenue Code.

Should the Foundation's program staff find it necessary or desirable, it may arrange a meeting with the applicant after the receipt of a written proposal. After the staff comprehensively reviews proposals, the Board acts on them. All grantmaking authority rests with the Board.

The Board of Directors meets four times a year. To be considered, full proposals should be submitted by February 1, May 1, August 1, and November 1. In most cases, staff is able to complete its reviews of proposals in time for the next scheduled Board meeting. Occasionally, it is not, or Board consideration is deferred to a later meeting.

Because of the necessarily limited resources of the Foundation, many worthwhile projects cannot be supported, of course. The demands on the Foundation's resources also limit the size of particular grants and the ability of the Foundation to make commitments for extended periods. For more information about the Bradley Foundation, including our guidelines for submitting proposals, please visit our website at www.bradleyfdn.org.

Bradley Prizes 2013

Milwaukee's Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation awarded its 2013 Bradley Prizes to Fox News Chairman and CEO Roger E. Ailes, former Solicitor General of the United States and partner of Bancroft PLLC Paul D. Clement, President of Purdue University and former Governor of the state of Indiana Mitchell E. Daniels, and National Affairs editor and Hertog Fellow at the Ethics and Public Policy Center Yuval Levin in an inspiring and entertaining ceremony at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C., on June 12. The $250,000 prizes recognize and celebrate the honorees' achievements in areas consistent with the Foundation's mission – the promotion and defense of liberal democracy, democratic capitalism, and American ideas and institutions at home and abroad.

2013 Bradley Prizes award recipients

Roger Ailes is Chairman and CEO of FOX News as well as Chairman of Fox Television Stations. He also serves as a senior advisor to Rupert Murdoch, Chairman and CEO of the News Corporation, Limited. Recognized by U.S. News and World Report as one of America's Best Leaders, Mr. Ailes was awarded the Media Institute's Freedom of Speech Award as well as the Radio and Television News Directors Association First Amendment Leadership Award. Since joining FOX News in 1996, Mr. Ailes created FOX's first weekly public affairs show, FOX News Sunday. He also oversaw the creation of FOX News Channel (FNC) and the Fox Business Network.

Prior to FOX, Mr. Ailes was President of CNBC. In 1991, after the Gulf War, he was Co-Executive Producer of An All-Star Salute to Our Troops, a two-hour entertainment special which aired on CBS. Mr. Ailes is the recipient of awards from the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, Pepperdine University, and the Congressional Medal of Honor Society. In 2008, Mr. Ailes was inducted into the Broadcasting and Cable Hall of Fame.

Paul Clement is a partner at Bancroft PLLC. Mr. Clement served as the 43rd Solicitor General of the United States from June 2005 until June 2008. Before his confirmation as Solicitor General, he served as both Acting Solicitor General and Principal Deputy Solicitor General. Mr. Clement has argued over 65 cases before the United States Supreme Court. Since 2000, he has argued more cases before the Supreme Court than any lawyer in or out of government. Mr. Clement received his B.A. degree from the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service and his M.A. degree in economics from Cambridge University. He graduated from Harvard Law School, where he was the Supreme Court editor of the Harvard Law Review. Following graduation, Mr. Clement clerked for Judge Laurence H. Silberman of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit and for Associate Justice Antonin Scalia of the U.S. Supreme Court. Since 1998, he has been an Adjunct or Visiting Professor at the Georgetown University Law Center as well as Senior Fellow of the Law Center's Supreme Court Institute.

George Will, Master of Ceremonies

Mitchell E. Daniels, Jr. is the 12th president of Purdue University, a position he assumed in January 2013, at the conclusion of his term as Governor of the State of Indiana. He was elected the 49th governor of Indiana and re-elected in 2008. Governor Daniels came from a successful career in business and government, holding numerous top management positions in both the private and public sectors. These included his work as CEO of the Hudson Institute and President of Eli Lilly and Company's North American Pharmaceutical Operations. He also served as Senior Advisor to President Ronald Reagan and Director of the Office of Management and Budget under President George W. Bush. During his tenure as Indiana's chief executive, Governor Daniels led the state to its first balanced budget in eight years and transformed Indiana's deficit to surplus. Under his guidance, Indiana enacted reforms improving the performance of state government as well as the most sweeping education reforms in the nation. In 2012, it became the 23rd Right-to-Work state. Governor Daniels earned a B.A. degree from Princeton University and J.D degree from Georgetown University.

Yuval Levin is the founding editor of National Affairs, a quarterly journal of public policy and political thought. He is also the Hertog Fellow at the Ethics and Public Policy Center, where he writes widely on a range of domestic policy issues, politics, culture, science, technology, and political philosophy. Dr. Levin served as a member of the White House domestic-policy staff under President George W. Bush. He was executive director of the President's Council on Bioethics, the body charged with advising the nation on the moral and policy implications of advances in biotechnology. Dr. Levin is a senior editor of The New Atlantic magazine and a contributing editor to National Review and The Weekly Standard. His essays and articles have appeared in numerous publications, including the Wall Street Journal, the New York Times, the Washington Post, Commentary, First Things, Time, Newsweek, and others. Dr. Levin is the author of Imagining the Future: Science and American Democracy and The Great Debate: Edmund Burke, Thomas Paine, and the Birth of Right and Left. He holds a B.A. in political science from American University and an M.A. and Ph.D. from the Committee on Social Thought at the University of Chicago.

Bradley Directors with the 2013 Bradley Prizes award recipients

2013 Bradley Symposium

In 2013, the Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation celebrated a decade of the Bradley Prizes. To mark the occasion, Bradley asked previous prize winners to gather in Washington, D.C., to discuss the question "Are We Freer Than We Were Ten Years Ago?" They were asked: Are we fulfilling the Foundation's mission to preserve and defend the tradition of free, representative government and private enterprise that enabled America and, indeed, the West to flourish economically and intellectually? What has changed during the past 10 years, and what will the next 10 years bring?

One panel answered these questions in the context of addressing whether economic opportunity is at risk. The Bradley brothers believed that their commercial success could only have been possible within a system of democratic capitalism and the institutions, principles, and values that sustain and nurture it. The panel was asked: Are the conditions of economic opportunity still present today in America and around the world? What can we do to cultivate those conditions?

A second panel addressed whether our political culture is undermining freedom. The Bradley brothers understood that freedom requires a political culture that is not only friendly to individual enterprise, but that also nurtures critical commitments like personal responsibility, moral obligation, and civic engagement. The panel was asked: Is our culture reinforcing or undermining those commitments today, and what might we do about it?

During a luncheon address, national journalist and commentator Charles Krauthammer spoke about promoting the idea of freedom. The preservation of freedom requires not only certain economic and cultural conditions, but also thoughtful scholars, journalists, and other shapers of public opinion who understand the demands of liberty and are able to come to its defense. The Bradley Prizes were designed to celebrate and recognize those who were best at this. Krauthammer discussed whether opinion leaders and intellectual elites in the West are becoming more or less friendly to freedom, and what sorts of Bradley Prize recipients should be recognized in the future to move American political thought in a positive direction.
